IT SURE BOTHERS THEM

"Please mail me a copy of your catalogue as the one you sent me has been stolen from my desk by some of your travelling competitors. It seems to bother them."

This is from a letter recently received from a country customer. Our competitors are always anxious to get our price lists in order to know how low they must go to get an order from a close buyer. "That's just Macdonald-Cooper's price" is considered by the travelling salesman to be the last word in a price discussion. If it is as low as Macdonald-Cooper's there is nothing further to be said regarding that item in the matter of price. The traveller gets the price given him by his house when he can; and will only sell at our price when he must. But he generally gets by with the higher prices.

A merchant ordering from our price list doesn't have to be always on his guard. He knows that every item is priced at the lowest figure at which it is possible for any house to sell it. We lead; others follow.

EVENTUALLY—WHY NOT NOW?

A stranger recently came into our office and introduced himself as Mr. So-and-So of Blankville. We at once recognized him as a man we have had on our mailing list for two or three years, but from whom we have never had an order. The conversation then proceeded something like this:

"I have come to the conclusion that I haven't been treating you fellows fairly."

"No? How's that?"

"Well, you see, you have been sending me your price list regularly ever since I have been in business, and I have been making constant use of it."

"We are delighted to know it has been of use to you. We are glad to be of service."

"Yes, but it's not fair. Your list has saved me many hundreds of dollars, as I make the travellers meet your prices if I can. But I feel this is not fair and I ought to give my business to the house which makes the low prices without any watching, instead of benefitting by your service indirectly and giving nothing in return. And besides I don't like having to be always on the watch to keep from paying too much; and anyway I only checked the other fellows on a few items and half the time they got by. So if you want my grocery business you can have it."

After our credit department had looked him up, we certainly wanted it; and he started off by leaving us an order amounting to $431.47. He is now buying about $1,000 a month from us, and is sorry he didn't begin sooner.

WHY YOU RAN OUT OF SUGAR

Occasionally customers complain that they did not receive the sugar they ordered, though the groceries on the same order arrived on time. This always refers to sugar to be shipped to points which are supplied freight paid from the storage here of the B.C. Sugar Refining Company, and not to sugar to be shipped from our own stock, which would lay down at destination at slightly higher cost. A clear understanding of how these sugar orders are handled may save our customers some disappointments.

We, ourselves, have what we believe is the quickest shipping organization to be found in all Canada. But sugar shipped freight paid from refinery storage is not handled by us at all. When we receive your orders for sugar to be shipped in that way, we copy them out and send them to the warehouse of the B.C. Sugar Refining Co., half a mile away. To obtain shipment on the day received, sugar orders must be at the B.C. Sugar Company's office not later than 1.30; and not later than 10 o'clock on Saturday. These orders should be in our hands by 9.30 a.m. on Saturdays; and, if possible, by 11.30 on other days, that they may be put through before the noon hour.

SANE OPTIMISM

If things are wrong,
Let's make 'em right;
If things are dull,
Let's make 'em bright;

And if they're good
It's well to plan
To make 'em better
If we can.

THE VALUE OF A DOLLAR

In 1920 Canadians bought from the United States some 921 million dollars' worth, mostly manufactured products. This means $115 for every man, woman and child in Canada. During the same period the United States bought from Canada only 560 millions, or a little over $5 per head of their population; and this was mostly raw materials. This, of course, is all wrong, and is the main reason why a perfectly good Canadian Dollar will only buy 86 cents' worth of U.S. products. It also accounts largely for the hard times and unemployment in the industrial sections of Canada, and to some extent for the poor market for our Western farm products.

We have, of course, no way of compelling our neighbors to the South to buy more from us; but the amount we buy from the United States is almost wholly under our own control. If Canadians would buy Canadian-made goods in preference to the products of United States factories, the Canadian dollar would soon be worth 100 cents in United States; and there would be material improvement in business conditions in Canada. In a case where a satisfactory article is not produced in Canada, a British-made product can generally be obtained. Our dollar buys only 86 cents' worth in the United States, but it buys $1.12 worth in Great Britain. A dollar spent on British goods buys as much as $1.30 spent in United States. But it is best to buy Canadian goods.

WE ADMIT IT OURSELVES

This is from a letter recently received from a country merchant with whom our credit department has had a disagreement:

"I like the Macdonald-Cooper firm very much, and as for service and price you simply have no equal."

This man won't buy from us; but he knows where the best service and values are to be obtained. This grouch is losing him money.

DON'T EXPECT THE IMPOSSIBLE

We believe that we afford our customers the most efficient service given by any house in the grocery trade in the matter of prompt shipment. Every order which reaches us before noon—except on Saturdays—is invariably shipped the same day, if that is loading day for the territory concerned. We can often make shipment the same day of orders reaching us after noon. We would ask our customers, however, not to expect the impossible.

It should be remembered that the railway freight sheds close at 4.30 p.m. On a busy day at the sheds, one of our teams might be there at 4 o'clock with five to seven tons of freight, and if there were a number of other loads ahead of it so that it could not begin unloading before 4.30, the load would have to come back to our warehouse until next shipping day. Our last load for the day must, therefore, leave our warehouse not later than 3.30. To start it away later would mean serious risk of having the load turned back from the sheds.

When an order comes in it must first go to the credit department for approval. It is then typed onto our shipping sheets. These sheets then go to the shipper, and the goods are assembled, possibly from five different floors, many items possibly having to be re-packed. The packages then have to be marked and checked, and the shipping bills made out, and everything loaded on the dray in time to leave at 3.30.

Isn't it expecting a good deal of us to phone in an order at 2.30 or 3 p.m. and ask for shipment "today sure"? We often succeed in getting away shipments ordered as late as that; but why take chances? In most cases the orders might just as easily have been turned in by the middle of the forenoon, or even the day before.

And on Saturdays the freight sheds close at 12.30, and our last load must leave our warehouse not later than 11.45.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF YOUR CUSTOMERS

Some people become real peeved if asked to pay an account; and many merchants are afraid to ask their customers to pay up. We believe this attitude is entirely unreasonable on the part of both customer and merchant. Why should a customer be annoyed because you ask him for money which he should have paid, and which you need to operate your business? If an account has become overdue, and you have to ask him for the money, it is you, and not your customer, who has cause for annoyance.

The experience of the past few months has done much to convert country merchants to the view that retail business can and should be done for cash or on short credit only. A difficult situation has been much aggravated by lack of system in giving credit. If you must give credit, have a very clear understanding with your customer as to how much credit you will give him, and when it is to be paid. And note these particulars on his account in your ledger. Then hold him down to the terms arranged.

If you agree to give a man credit for $50 on the strength of his assurance that he will pay in one month, and you permit the account to run three or four months and grow to $150, and you permit your other customers to do the same, you will inevitably reach a point where you cannot carry on your business—unless you are possessed of capital out of proportion to your volume of business. Hold him down to the $50 agreed on; and if he does not pay within a reasonable time after the date agreed, go after him. If you cannot collect a small account from him, you have a poor show to get a big one.

BUSINESS FOR SALE

Small general store business at railway point in good district near Edmonton. Stock about $5,000.00. Good business could be developed. We will be glad to put interested parties in touch.

LET HIM TALK

"If your competitor talks about you, put him on your pay roll. Never mind what he says, so long as he talks."

People soon get "on" to the competitor who makes mud slinging a practice, and in the end his knocking reacts on him.
